

A Message to our MAGA Brethren

Things have been a bit contentious of late, but some day this will end, and when it does it is important that you remember this:

We will forgive you.

It might take some time. Emotions have run very high all around. But we will forgive you. We love you and we want you back.

It is never too late for the truth to set you free

© God's Beacon

A Message to our MAGA Brethren

Things have been a bit contentious of late, but some day this will end, and when it does it is important that you remember this:

We will forgive you.

It might take some time. Emotions have run very high all around. But we will forgive you. We love you and we want you back.

It is never too late for the truth to set you free

© God's Beacon

A Message to our MAGA Brethren

Things have been a bit contentious of late, but some day this will end, and when it does it is important that you remember this:

We will forgive you.

It might take some time. Emotions have run very high all around. But we will forgive you. We love you and we want you back.

It is never too late for the truth to set you free

© God's Beacon

A Message to our MAGA Brethren

Things have been a bit contentious of late, but some day this will end, and when it does it is important that you remember this:

We will forgive you.

It might take some time. Emotions have run very high all around. But we will forgive you. We love you and we want you back.

It is never too late for the truth to set you free

© God's Beacon